The Child and Tobacco
in South :
Coming up together and growing up together.

At dawn, on March 15, 1978 the Israeli invasion of South Lebanon was launched. The first military communique about this invasion was given by Washington broadcasting station, at the same moment when Israeli fire began. This had the effect of uprooting the people at South Lebanon from their land and disturbing their sleep, which has always been described as a troubled sleep, because of the activities of their neighbor, Israel. The invasion threw these Southern Lebanese citizens into the inferno of slaughter, destruction and destitution, and enforced on them this terrible « American dream ». Washington radio was the first station in the whole world to convey to the world the transfer of this dream to South Lebanon.

This American scoop did not reveal the secrets of the technology of the missiles across the continents, as much as it revealed the combined American-Israeli secret resolution for Israel to invade South Lebanon. Nor did it reveal the timing of the invasion. This proves, once again, and in another place the seriousness of Washington about its enduring policy in the preparation of massacres, and its exporting them across the borders of countries and continents.

On the walls of the Israeli military operations room, the Generals of Israel hung the map of South Lebanon, with its towns and villages, its men, women and children, its fields, rocks, soil and poverty, all of which were regarded as military targets to be destroyed by Israel's arsenal, which is equipped with the most modern and most destructive weapons.

On a front 100 kilometers wide, in the Eastern and Middle Sectors and along the coastal road, Israel threw in more than 30,000 soldiers to invade the South by land, sea and air, using in its attack F-15 American planes and cluster bombs, in addition to hundreds of armored cars, tanks and long-range guns, thus spreading ruin and destruction in our towns and villages.

The magnitude of this military machine employed in the invasion, and the variety of this highly developed destructive weaponry, and the barbaric fascist massacres organized by Israel against men, women and children — all of this does not make of this invasion an ordinary military operation, similar to Israel's previous attacks during the last ten years against the people of Lebanon and its land. On the contrary, this invasion may be regarded as the Fifth War launched by Israel, a war backed by flagrant American Imperialism against the Lebanese People and against the whole of the National Liberation Movement of the Arab World. It makes of this direct military operation another noose, one of the most vicious, of the continued conspiracy of the last three years. It is the noose which aims at cloaking Lebanon, thus fulfilling the final aims of Imperialist Zionist Movement : ultimate control by Israel over Lebanon and the entire Arab region, in an attempt to ensure its own « political and security » stability.

On the eve of the Israeli invasion of Lebanon, the treacherous « initiative » of Sadat had already reached failure. It had become finally clear that the policy of surrender to Israel and the United State had achieved nothing but the strengthening of the position of Israel, and increasing its stubbornness and encouraged the implementation of its policy which aims at expanding its territorial claims.

Also on the eve of this invasion, it became finally evident that the attempts of the United States and conservative Arab regimes, to help Sadat and rescue his policy from strangulation and isolation, had failed. At the same time, the positions of the « hardline » Arab powers which faced Sadat's policies and initiative were strengthened.

Simultaneously, on the eve of this invasion, the isolationist Zionist imperialist endeavour in Lebanon was facing fierce opposition ; its internal fascist forces facing greater isolation. All the internal eccentric attempts to direct a blow to the Lebanese National Movement and the liquidation of the Palestinian Resistance had failed, whether these attempts were in the South of Lebanon or in all Lebanon. These aimed at enforcing the goals of Israel without obliging it to intervene directly. The Lebanese national stand during three full years and its alliance with the Palestinian Resistance, played here the major role in frustrating the isolationist Zionist endeavor, not only with regard to Lebanon, but also to a great extent with regard to the American-Israeli Arab conservative plan in the area. The frustration of the plan in Lebanon which was chosen as an initial battle field, helped to frustrate the project which aimed to spread out and control all the other Arab peoples and countries.

As a result of this situation, it became imperative that Israel should intervene directly, through its extensive barbaric attack against Lebanon's Southern border. This attack was not a direct result of the Palestinian Fedayeen operation which was executed between Haifa and Tel Aviv. The attack came as a result of the submissive Arab policy, and at the same time the dilemma it created. The attack had been planned by Israel a long time ago, but it chose to implement it at this time in a new more serious attempt, in order to help once more, the Zionist-American conspiracy and its local and Arab forces, thus helping them to get out of the dilemma into which they had fallen. Accordingly, it is possible to define the aims of the Israeli occupation as follows :

1. Liquidation of the Palestinian Resistance Movement with one deadly military blow in Lebanon, which would result in a new political situation in all the Arab World; this situation would help liquidate the Palestinian cause, which is the main obstacle vis-à-vis the Israeli American solution.
2. Facing Syria with one of two alternatives : either accepting the political and military results of the aggression which aim at subjugating it and pressuring it into following the course of surrender, a thing which on the other hand would prove that the policy of « steadfastness and challenge » is hopeless, and would also weaken and deal a blow to the hardline states opposing the policy of Sadat ; or pushing it into direct military confrontation with Israel and making it bear the responsibility for exploding the general situation in the region and the breaking out of a new large-scale war that would threaten peace in the world.
3. Creation of a new situation which would help Sadat regain Arab respect and release him from his isolation without having to abandon his treacherous attitude.
4. Implement a new Israeli victory which would reinforce Israel's position, and at the same time mitigate the embarrassing attitude of the United States vis-à-vis its Arab allies.
5. On the Lebanese sector, the invasion aimed at destroying the Lebanese National Movement, in order to create a political situation which would lead to Lebanon becoming friendly with Israel. That implied spreading the fascist, sectarian scheme throughout Lebanon. The scheme which aims at uprooting democracy and liquidating its nationalist forces, and installing a political, social and fascist system in all Lebanon ; or dividing Lebanon and causing the unity of its people and land to disintegrate. Our country will thus remain under the direct political control of Israel. This criminal objective of the Israeli occupation became clear in the conditions put up by the aggressive invaders, and through the political and military conduct of the local forces that deal with the enemy especially after the withdrawal which Israel was forced to effect, but seeking at the same time to carry out a comprehensive political and military plan to consolidate the results of her aggression. By keeping control of military positions in the South, Israel kept its direct military presence in the border area. By forming its « Lebanese army » composed of the fascist sectarian militia, and its refusal of any official Lebanese army which is not part of the military force acting on behalf of Israel, it kept its direct political presence. This has had the effect of destroying the national identity of the Southern area, transforming it into an artificial sectarian sector. This completed, Israel would connect this sector with the rest of the sectors under the control of the fascist isolationist authority. This actuality would lead to the dissolution of the nationalist sectors, which in turn would be swallowed gradually by the isolationist scheme. This way, Israel would impose its terms on our people, and keep the influence of their occupation in their own hands. Its sword would have continued to mutilate and slaughter our people and nation. It would have also made itself a direct, basic, local party in deciding the general political situation in Lebanon after it used to be satisfied in the past with exerting external pressure on it through its military aggression.

6. In addition to all this, Israel would have not into effect its old dream of controlling the waters of South Lebanon and expanding into new lands. The ambitions of Israel have always been directed towards a continuous effort to seize the waters of the Lebanese Hasbani and Litani rivers, ever since the early preparations for the « Jewish National Home » in Palestine and after the foundation of Israel. When the Israeli military was unable to implement its greed by force, it tried to conceal desire for more land and resources by imperialistic schemes to control the waters of the South. The most prominent of such schemes was that of Johnston in 1953, followed by the Couton Scheme of 1954. In its invasion of Lebanon, Israel continued its advance in the South even after the issuing of the resolution of the Security Council to cease fire, until it reached the Hasbani river, thus making sure of its direct military control over the Litani river course. After its withdrawal, Israel preserved its direct control over areas in the course of the two rivers, when it handed over those areas to its fascist agent militias.

Israel promised itself, Carter and the Lebanese and Arab Conservatives, that it would complete its military operations in 48 hours. Every one waited for the quickly expected victory which was supposed to achieve the aims of the invasion. But the result was not in accordance with the hopes of Israel and her conspiratorial allies. The Israeli invasion did not fulfill all the direct political aims of the military occupation, as a result of many factors, the most important being the continuation of the fighting against the invaders for seven full days.

In spite of the massive military force which Israel put into action in the Fifth War ; and despite the limited military capabilities of their opponents, as compared to those of the invaders; and despite the numerous unfavourable political military conditions, local and Arab, our people in the South fought and resisted, and the Palestinians fought and resisted. The Lebanese national resisting forces and the Palestinian national resisting forces were both able to change « the picnic » about which the rulers of Israel were boasting, to a much different result from that which had been expected.

It is the first time that Israel has launched another war on Arab countries and peoples without having to face regular armies. It was the people, not the regular army, which stood up to the Israeli invasion and prevented it from achieving its criminal objectives.

On the military side, the invaders were not able to liquidate the national Lebanese and Palestinian forces which faced them. The capitulation which they expected did not occur ; on the contrary, our forces inflicted on the enemy what he did not expect — losses, which in proportion to Israel's size were tremendous. Our forces were able to protect their fighting military capabilities with very few losses. The determination of the national movement and the Palestinian Resistance has become even more forceful after these battles, and they have become more sure of the necessity of continuing the struggle. This they showed by not slackening the pressure on Israel until the enemy had been thrown out of our country.

The losses inflicted on us were mostly civilian and in the villages and towns which were occupied by the new Nazis. The interviews and the photographs in this book, taken from the few who survived the collective massacres organized by the invaders show the extent of the barbarism which Zionism has inflicted upon our people, killing our youths, destroying property and villages and whole quarters completely. Their motivation was based on bigotry and fear from facing their military opponents ; Israel preferred to inflict revenge on civilians. They wanted to make revenge against a nation and the owners of the land who refused to bow before the enemy. The figures and photographs which appear in this book, regarding the extent of the destruction and the enormous material losses, show the goals of Israel by changing from the « good neighbor of open doors » to an agent following a policy of « destroying and burning the land » with the aim of ridding the South of its inhabitants, and making the great majority of them leave their land so that their future schemes of land appropriation can be executed, irrespective of the misery that Israel would inflict by making thousands of people homeless.

As to the Political scene, the results were even more disastrous. The Israeli aggression was faced from the start with strong condemnation and denunciation by many revolutionary and democratic forces in the world — these forces that unveiled its objectives and stood up against its attempts to dictate conditions for the enemy and for those who collaborated with him.

As a result of the heroic resistance to defend the land of Lebanon, which frustrated the aim of a quick Israeli victory in 48 hours, and by exposing the massacres which the enemy inflicted against peaceful citizens and densely populated areas, a great movement of condemnation of the Israeli invasion spread in the Arab countries indeed through the whole world. A wide spread action of solidarity, both official and public, backed the Lebanese people, its national movement and the Palestinian Resistance. This action paved the way for a strong political-national move among both Lebanese and Palestinian circles in Lebanon, the Arab countries and in the world as a whole. This move forced even the United States to submit to the request for the withdrawal of the invading armies in order to avoid the weakening of the Arabs, who are acting as American agents.

The campaign backing the Lebanese people, as shown in this book, does not show all the scenes and the activities of this campaign in Arab and international circles. This book could not include all the support shown by many forces in many countries. Our people who are proud of all this support will look for even more in all possible ways. The Lebanese people, as a result of the achievements commemorated in this book have become more powerful, materially and morally. Therefore, the Lebanese people will continue in their struggle against continued attacks.

On the other hand, the resistance of the steadfastness front has frustrated the goals of the Israeli invasion (which wanted the liquidation of the Palestinian Resistance), making it a complete failure. The Palestinian Resistance and the Palestinian people have both come out with more political stamina, making them a crucial factor in the solution of the Middle East problem. It has been proven again that there will be no possible solution in this area unless it is based on legitimate Palestinian rights with respect to their land and home.

As for Lebanon, the Israeli invasion failed to destroy the Lebanese National Movement and national presence in the South and in other areas of Lebanon as well. On the basis of its resistance, the Lebanese National Movement has succeeded in forcing more isolation and crisis on Israel, and has also forced the isolationist fascist forces towards admitting its direct loyalty to Israel, which has led it into further isolation, weakness, resulting in more forces leaving that leadership and political line. The answer of the sectarian fascists in Lebanon to these forces that refused to commit national treason by dealing with Israel, was the barbaric Ehden massacre which manifested once again the fascist hatred which the Zionist isolationist forces harbor against our Lebanese people and the dark fate which these forces are preparing.

The Lebanese National Movement had to face political confrontation with the isolationist forces — these forces which strengthened themselves as a result of the foreign invasion of their country in order to enforce a political fascist scheme. These isolationist forces did not show the least sign of national respect and identity. In addition to that confrontation, the Lebanese National Movement had to enter into a political confrontation with the Government which adopted a weak and submissive attitude, vis-à-vis the foreign occupation. The behavior of the Government continued to be negative regarding its responsibilities towards its people and the country.

In the face of these complicated circumstances, during and after the invasion, the Lebanese National Movement was able to hold its own position as a result of the sacrifices and heroism of our people, and was able, together with the Palestinian Resistance, to thwart the aims of the Israeli occupation as far as liquidation of the Palestinian Resistance is concerned, both politically and militarily. It also thwarted the dedication of the isolationist control over Lebanon. As our people have confronted bravely this cycle of conspiracies, it will confront and frustrate in the future other plots masterminded by Israel.

This book, with its figures, documents, photographs and statistics, presents a living testimony proves the racism of Israel and its expansionist ambitions, as well as its fascism which has spread horror around it, and has brought about ruin and death after that state's withdrawal. Israel surrounds the people with its barbarism, which is its only horizon.

This is also a book which presents a living testimony regarding the stand of our people in the face of the forces of conspiracies showing that they were not subjugated, but instead strongly defended their country and their liberty.

This is a new Vietnam in the opposite half of the globe, as described by one of the correspondents of the United Press, when he covered the events in the South of Lebanon. As the Vietnamese people won their war, our people will win theirs, and as the Vietnamese people, in their resistance, dedicated the victory to the nation, our people also with their resistance, will also dedicate the victory of all the fighting nations, hoping for a free, peaceful and democratic future.

This book is a testimony of this steadfastness.

DAY BY DAY ACCOUNT OF THE AGGRESSION

March 14, 1978 was a day of tension and alertness, the atmosphere of which pervaded the border areas. The farmers of the South and the tobacco growers in all the towns of the South, stretching from the Sea and extending to the Eastern Sector (Arkoub) were all in suspense, expecting a big Israeli attack for which all its preparations had been completed.

□ The Zionists laid the blame on Lebanon for the fedayeen operation — « The Martyr Kamal Adwan Operation » — which was executed north of Tel Aviv and covered a large area.

Taking into consideration the usual Israeli attitude, all sectors were expecting a massive Israeli attack.

□ The Israeli television, which covers South Lebanon confirmed without any doubt, that the Israeli leadership was organizing a big military operation. On March 14, the count down of the operation started, after it became known that all the heroes of the Kamal Adwan operation had either fallen or were being held as prisoners.

□ The inhabitants of the South watched with their naked eyes the increase of the Israeli army that had begun from the dawn of the day. The military fascist gang of the traitor Sa'd Haddad concentrated its activities by collaborating with the Israeli forces. The South witnessed many reconnaissance flights of enemy planes over the area, preceded by a massive naval movement near the territorial waters facing the beach extending from Sarafand to Sidon.

In the light of this tension, the Lebanese-Palestinian joint command in the South took quick measures in the face of the available information that the enemy would attempt to occupy the territory up to the Litani river, at the same time inflicting the fiercest military blow against the camps and the towns of the South, their aim being to liquidate the military power of the Palestine Liberation Organization and the fighting national Lebanese units.

In the light of this information the following actions were taken :

- In the military field, the plan required no gathering of forces, in order to avoid its destruction in a frontal attack led by a massive regular army.
- Fighting the enemy in every place in order to inflict the greatest loss among its forces.
- In the civilian sector, the camps were evacuated of their inhabitants, because it was known that they would be the first target of the enemy's aerial, sea and land attack. In addition, schools were closed, and

...and the South entered the military operations room.

DAY BY DAY ACCOUNT OF THE AGGRESSION

the inhabitants of the towns were instructed not to assemble in large numbers, in order to avoid what might happen.

During that night, the mood of suspense of the citizens proved to be correct. The Israeli movement began at about ten o'clock across the whole Lebanese-Israeli front. At about eleven o'clock the sound of enemy airplanes deafened one's ears, and the area began to change into day as a result of the dropping of thousands of flares, while the Israeli armor, especially lines of tanks, began to move up to the border area. Then the Israeli guns started a barbaric, heavy attack.

At about midnight of March 14-15, the Israeli planes struck at the sites of the joint forces from Nakoura at the West to Mount Hermon in the East. Under cover of heavy gun and aerial bombardment, the armored divisions advanced in three directions :

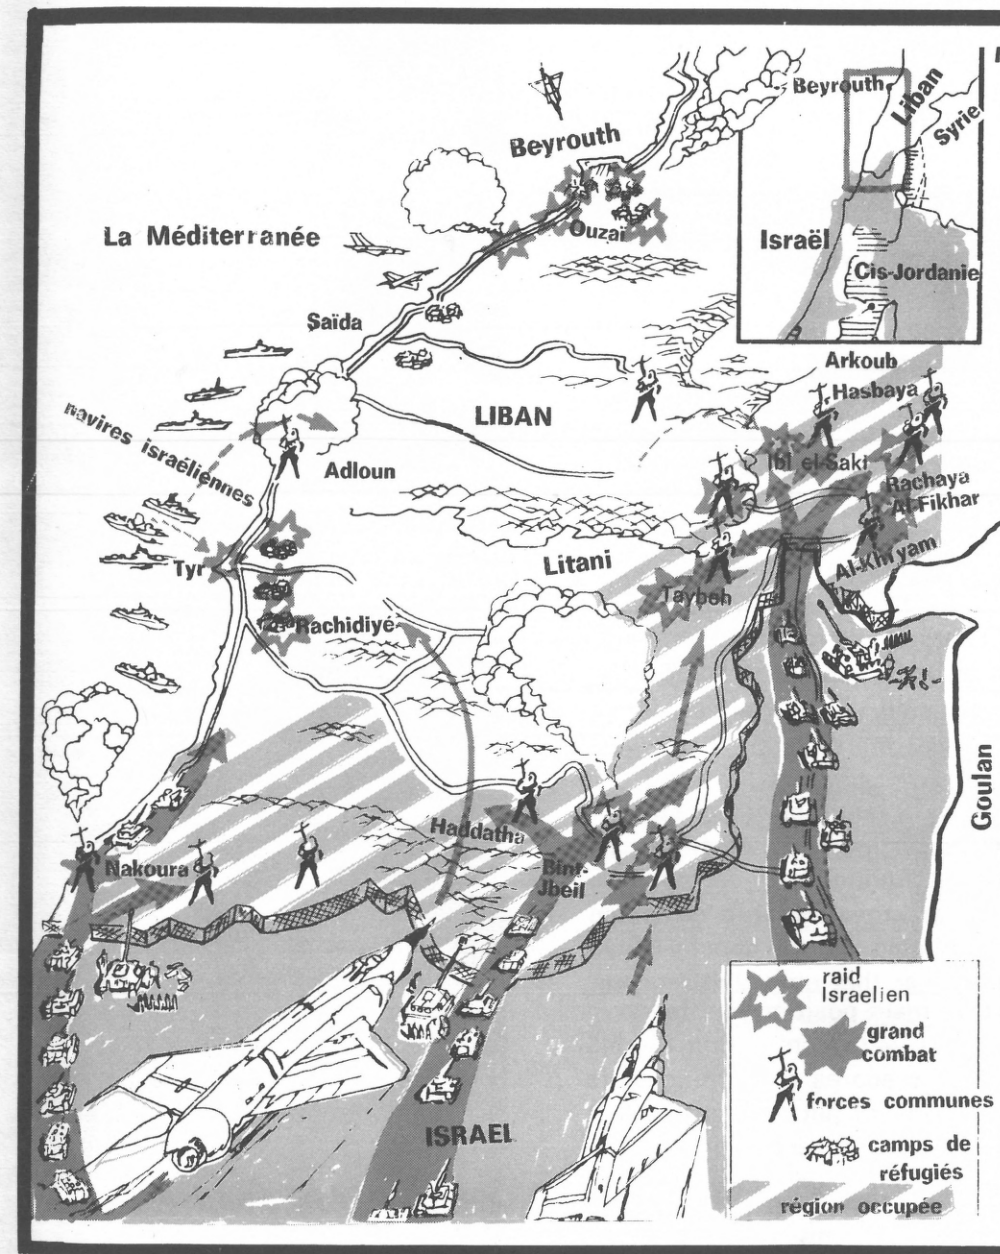

- Towards the Eastern sector from Metulla colony to Marjeyoun - Hasbani and Arkoub.
- Towards the central sector in two lines, the first from Miskay Aam to Taybeh - Kantara - Gandouriyeh, and the second line from Afafim colony to Maroun El Ras-Bint Jebel - Tibnin.
- Towards the Western sector, or the Sea coast from Nakoura to Bayyada to Tyre.

The enemy for this attack mustered more than 30,000 Israeli soldiers, drawn from all sections of its army. Tel Aviv never imagined that any force whatsoever could stand in the way at this huge army. This was confirmed by several military correspondents. Rony Daniel the correspondent of Israel radio said after the beginning of the operation that the biggest organized move to liquidate the Fedayeen had been started. He said it was the biggest campaign as far as its size... « and until this hour it is running as planned », adding that the forces had not met any unexpected encounters.

However, what was taking place in the battle field was completely different. The fighters of the joint forces started to move immediately after the enemy crossed the borders towards

David Hirst, correspondent of the «Guardian» newspaper writes:

«...Israeli soldiers were talking to me and to my colleague of the United Press and the «Voice of America» softly and gently. Then they became criminal and vicious when they saw one villager shaking. It seems that to the Israelis every one is a disguised terrorist. The officer in charge of the soldiers asked us: «Were there any civilians killed during the shelling?» So we pointed our fingers towards a house under whose debris an old woman was lying. We answered him that only civilians had been killed; all who had been killed were civilians».

□ Captain Ouzi Dayan, relative of the Israeli Foreign Minister, replied when he heard our story: «I don't like to tell you this, but I was the one who gave the order to shell the school», and he pointed to a Centurion tank and said: «This is the tank which shelled from a distance of 1200 meters».

DAY BY DAY ACCOUNT OF THE AGGRESSION

sacres was the one in Adloun against certain innocent people, and another in the town of Al-Khiyam against scores of aged the agent pockets which facilitated Israel's advance, especially at Maroun El-Ras, Bint-Jebeit, Taybeh, Al Khiyam and Ibl As-Saqi. The resistance groups forced the enemy to retreat in front of Maroun El-Ras and Aitroun. At this time the heroes of the joint forces were inflicting heavy losses on the enemy in the areas of Taybeh and Al Khiyam.

The leaders of Israel had to admit that they had met with heroic resistance, to the extent that Weizmann confirmed that the invasion was not a picnic, thereby denying the claims of his master Begin that the Israeli operation had been completed. This also contradicted the claims of Begin's Chief of Staff Mordechai Ghur, who had stated that the operation had achieved all its objectives. The correspondent of the Israeli radio also had to admit the fierceness of the resistance at Bint Jebeit, adding that the bases of the combined forces at Bint Jebeit, Maroun El-Ras, Taybeh and Al Khiyam had all been surrounded.

The aim of Israeli plan became clear ; it wanted to establish a security belt eighty kilometers wide from the Mediterranean to Mount Hermon, its depth to be between 7-10 kilometers.

The Israeli radio praised the role of the rightist militia forces, and the gangs of Sa'd Haddad for their great services rendered to the Israeli army.

Darkness began falling slowly 18 hours after the start of the operation, when news agencies carried a statement by an Israeli colonel in which he said that fighting was raging from house to house. Tel Aviv radio began broadcasting a campaign to justify Israel's barbaric acts by claiming that the houses blown up were full of arms... but it was clear that until that moment nothing had been completed and no main position had fallen in Israeli hands. A few hundred fighters were confronting the big Israeli army with an iron will. A few scores of fighting units were moving under cover of darkness to put up traps, plant mines, and prevent the enemy from moving freely. The Bayyada attack was their most important operation against the enemy for a long time, forcing him to retreat from his front lines back to the Hamra bridge. The reply came in the form of a barbaric aerial and cannon shelling in an indiscriminate manner.

During the night of March 15-16, the enemy was trying to advance, and his attempts hit strongly at Bint Jebeit and Maroun El Ras, where the fighters of the joint forces foiled an Israeli night landing.

On the dawn of March 16, Israeli planes launched a wide-range shelling attack that covered all sectors, and it was clear that the Israeli aim was to advance and occupy all the border villages. During the first hours of the day, the battle was raging stronger, and the fighters were freezing the movement of the enemy all along the coastal line facing Deir Harfa, when it appeared that the enemy was concentrating its attack on the middle sector and its target was to reach Tibnin.

Correspondents reported that day that the most violent clashes were raging on the two axes of Taybeh-Kantara-Ghandouriyeh, and Bint Jebeit-Kounin-Beit Yahoun-Tibnin. In the eastern sector, the shelling broke up the supply lines of the enemy in the Marjeyoun area — which forced the enemy to proclaim a curfew in Upper Galilee and to force the inhabitants there to go down to the shelters.

From that time the tone of the Israeli radio changed, and it started to admit part of the truth when it announced that «our troops are facing heavy fire from the fedayeen who are still holding out near the borders ». The correspondents admitted that the position which caused the enemy to suffer heavy casualties was Taybeh, where fighting went on for 15 hours, and where a large number of Israelis fell. Also near Ghandourieh, heavy fighting took place with various kinds of weapons, and enemy tanks went on with their attempts to enter the town until 5:30 hours. Then the airforce went out o shatre in the battle until the town fell at night.

In the meantime, Tel Aviv was enlarging its aggression in peaceful areas by shelling Tyre, Nabatiyeh, Arnoun, Damour and Awzai in Beirut's southern suburb. It was also announcing its casualties : 11 killed, including two officers, and 57 wounded.

That day was characterized by heavy fighting which raged on the various fronts and the joint forces had partial superiority when they stopped the advance of the enemy, who resorted for the first time to their airforce's F-15 fighter-bombers, which carried out destructive shelling to allow enemy vehicles to advance.

□ The fighting continued during the night from the sea to Mount Hermon and a new day (March 17) began with battles raging ; Weizman admits the existence of « unexpected resistance ». He affirms that the resistance movement has at its disposal rockets that can land deep in Israeli territory at a distance of 30 kilometers. The number of casualties on the Israeli side rises, and reports about massacres of civilians perpetrated by Israel and the traitor Sa'd Haddad spread. Among such mas-men and women. In spite of these atrocities the enemy did not fulfil its aims, and the French radio described the battles, saying: « The Palestinian-Lebanese leftist forces are facing the Israeli attack on South Lebanon with such strength that it makes the fighting on all axes more than just a guerrilla war, but a military confrontation in the full sense of the word. The fighters were able to stop the advance of Israeli tanks and forced them in other positions to retreat ».

This steadfastness in the face of this huge size of Israeli troops is meaningful. This heroic steadfastness forced the enemy to resort to the use of the F-15 planes during the third day of the fighting. The enemy knew the exact size of the joint forces in the south and was unable to beat them. So, Weizmann found a reason in the difficult paths and the uneasy land. But at the top of his wrath Weizmann admitted the presence of an enemy that had manifested its capability to fight in certain positions, and especially in the Maroun El Ras and Bint Jebeil sectors.

But Weizmann did not tell the whole truth, Boni de Torhau, correspondent of the Agence France Presse, arrived in Eita El-Zot to declare that « contrary to what has been said, the town of Tibnin was not the place where any fighting took place ». He added that the shelling was still going on, and that the Israelis did not dare to advance. As to resisting the aggression, the French correspondent said : « We can see groups of five or six of them armed with assault rifles and rocket launchers of the RPG type... their losses are small and they wait in their trenches for the Israelis in order to hinder their advance ».

With the evening drawing close, new facts and truths began to be revealed. Most of the towns facing the borders did not fall. Ghandourieh and Tibnin were still resisting; Al-Khiyam had been occupied, but suicide squads remained there; and Taybeh witnessed a counter attack by joint forces during which enemy concentrations were hit.

The aggressors lost their minds because they never thought for a second that they would be fighting a war in the south. So their planes rush to the scene in continuous waves shelling, destroying, spreading terror and killing innocent people, in Tyre and Nabatiyeh in particular. Scores were killed among poor fishermen and tobacco growers.

□ Groups of fighters spread in Arkoub and stayed close to the land, vowing « they will not pass ». By nightfall they attack the Israeli posts spread in the valley extending from the Souk refugee from Zawtar :

Israeli Rifles Chase the Children

«The planes were shelling Taybeh and after that we could only see thick clouds of smoke covering the sky of the region. My son was looking after our three cows, and the enemy rained on him with 500 mm automatic fire. He was saved as if by miracle. The enemy also directed its fire against

El Khan to Hasbani, with light guns and hand grenades. The battle rages ; the Arkoub fighters display courage in defending their positions ; and Israeli lines begin to waver. With dawn coming on Saturday March 18, Israeli troops are forced to abandon the positions they have been occupying. They retreat to Dhour Kawkaba and Tallat Sultan, where they open up a barrage of shelling beginning 4 a.m. in the direction of Abu Kamha, Hasbaya and Mimes.

It is how the fourth day since the start of the attack on the south. The enemy has not fulfilled its objectives, and consequently the Jewish Sabbath holiday does not apply to the Israelis in the south. Their land, sea and air operations continue with more intensity than on previous days. It is clear that the enemy's target is to reach the southern bank of the Litani river and to reach Kasmieh, where Tyre would be under its control. For this reason, the enemy attack begins on three axes :

- Taybeh-Ghandourieh axis toward Bourj Rahhal and Kasmieh to encircle the joint forces.
- Tibnin-Juwaya-Tyre axis
- Tibnin-Qana-Tyre axis

At that time, the attack was going on on the coastal line toward Tyre after the landing in Ezziyeh and Hinniyyeh. The main defense post to hinder the enemy's advance was the town of Tibnin, which was subjected for 30 hours to continuous raids and shelling with the enemy failing to occupy it. But the enemy plan was to complete its objective quickly, and so engage in a race with time. He wanted to liquidate the joint forces after encircling them, to break the resistance in Tyre, and to reach the town of Nabatiyeh. For this purpose, the enemy advanced toward the Khardali bridge, where a fierce battle took place for eight hours, ending in the enemy retreat, and Nabatiyeh became outside his direct goals.

Fighting went on unabated on all axes and the Israeli air force was constantly in action. During the fighting, various kinds of weapons were used, and the fighters of the joint forces were at the climax of their courageous fighting, shouting : « You will never pass, Mordechai Ghur... You will never pass Weizmann ».

The Israeli force that was parachuted to Hinniyyeh was encircled on the coast, and the joint forces inflicted heavy casualties on it. Had it not been for the intervention of Israeli gunboats, the whole parachuted commando unit would have been wiped out. That unit whose aim was to reach Tyre was instead forced to retreat.

On the Haris axis, the joint forces launched a counter-attack in the evening and stopped the enemy advance. The Zionist reply was the shelling of the town's school, where inhabitants were taking refuge, making them suffer heavy casualties. Invading troops could not advance much beyond Tibnin after the fourth day of the invasion, and Tyre was not encircled nor the joint forces.

The Israeli reply was a concentration of air and sea shelling on Tyre, the city of heroism which survived a few highly difficult days, and on Nabatiyeh and its villages. But the arm of the joint forces was not short, and so by nightfall a wide-scale war of attrition began against advanced Israeli positions. These operations were described as the « war of the wasp », as this type of warfare is based on attacking the enemy unexpected in various positions. So, automatic rifle fire surprised the enemy and hand grenades harassed his installations.

□ The day — March 18, passes and the enemy fails to launch a decisive battle, and his promises to end the resistance of the joint forces evaporate. Meanwhile, Washington was voicing its concern for the operations which it did not expect would last more than 48 hours. The BBC correspondent was reporting in one of his messages : « I witnessed a complete war in which Israel failed to decide the fate of the battle against the joint forces ».

In the early hours of Sunday March 19, the enemy began enlarging its aggression by sending new reinforcements to the battlefield. Several infantry and armor divisions were trying to encircle the town of Tyre and the long front was like hell : the sea sending shells, the skies raining bombs, and the earth giving growth to explosives which Israel uses for the first time : the infamous cluster bomb, each of which contains 30 bombs inside it. But the fierceness of the battle only strengthened the will of the fighters and their steadfastness and their sticking to the

Yousef Saadeh, Mukhtar (headman) of Ibl el-Saki, says :

«What can I say ? As you can see they have left nothing. They broke down the school and destroyed the church. They bulldozed the olives (about 10 dunums) and dug trenches around the village (also about 10 dunums). In any case, whatever they do we still support the joint forces and are proud of them... But why did they destroy the school... this is the teacher standing here. Ask him how the school was ?» The school teacher said: «The school was one of the best government schools in the region, and had 325 students land of the South.

Scores of units of fighters were racing with the enemy to block his path in spite of the fierceness of the shelling. Then came the surprise which the enemy did not expect and that was the fierce resistance of the defense positions on the Abbasiya-Deir Qanoun road. Again darkness fell and the enemy had failed to reach the city of Tyre nor even to encircle it. The fight for the Qasmieh bridge continued, and the joint forces fought bravely to defend it.

The fifth day of the war was very fierce, and it led to disastrous results. The towns of Abbasiyeh and Juwaya were destroyed by aerial bombardment, and scores of civilians were killed by the cluster bombs which Israel used for the first time, as if the use of the F-15 planes was not enough.

□ On the sixth day of the invasion, the UN Security Council had passed a resolution calling for the withdrawal of Israeli troops and the dispatch of UN forces. But Zionist troops continued fighting and the target was of course the city of Tyre. Fighters of the joint forces continued their resistance, and the battles that raged near the western bank of the Litani were extremely fierce. After that the enemy never tried to advance, but reverted instead to shelling with the aim of destruction and annihilation. The correspondent of the Agence France Presse who arrived in Qasmieh confirmed that the joint forces hit an Israeli boat and the BBC correspondent confirmed that several rockets fell in Upper Galilee.

□ March 21, the seventh day after the beginning of aggression, and the tenth anniversary of the Karameh battle. Tyre did not fall. The aggressors did not contemplate any further advance toward Khardali. The joint forces closely watched the situation. Support of the National Movement's call for continuation of fighting the occupation forces. Abou Ammar inspected the fighters in their frontline positions. Ghur had announced his aim was to destroy and annihilate the resistance forces and their allies, but he had failed. Weizmann and Begin declared that the war of the south was an operation that would not last more than a few hours, but they were surprised to find that it was the fifth Arab-Israeli war.

enrolled. Its large library was looted and not a single book left in it... this is a shame». The Mukhtar then began speaking again: «We lost about 20,000 olive trees... what a loss ! The age of every tree was not less than 50 years, and some of the trees were 400-year old. The more the olive tree gets older the more fruit it bears».

FACTS AND FIGURES ABOUT THE AGGRESSION

The following pages give an account of the atrocities committed by the Zionist invaders and the size of the huge destruction and losses, as well as the great material damages they inflicted on the South, its people, its land and the signs of life in it. These are the facts and figures about the aggression, but they are only preliminary figures, since they do not include the damages and losses in the regions which Israel handed over after its so-called withdrawal to fascist gangs, those regions where United Nations troops have not entered until now. Hence, these figures cannot be considered as comprising a comprehensive census that encompasses all the results left over by the war which Israel launched against people, houses, schools, places of worship, villages, towns, fields and plantations. In spite of that, they give a clear picture of the Zionist terrorism which was exercised in the South. What do these facts say?

— The invaders manifested their racist fascist hatred against peaceful civilians. It can be said they killed in their air raids, in the shelling of their tanks and in their collective massacres civilians only. They left behind more than one thousand bodies* most of which were bodies of old people, children and women.

— A large number of these victims were not killed by air raids or shelling, but directly by invading soldiers. In the town of Al-Khiyam alone, they killed more than 50 persons including old men and women in one massacre.

In the massacre of Adloun, perpetrated by a seaborne Israeli commando unit in an area not reached by the military invasion, 17 southern refugees mostly women and girls were killed, in addition to children whose ages ranged between a year and half and 13 years.

In Rashaya el-Fokhar, they entered a church and perpetrated inside it a massacre against the inhabitants who took refuge there away from the barbarism of the invaders... In the village of Abbasiya alone, they destroyed the houses over their inhabitants killing 140 persons.

— If these « samples » of atrocities give a picture of Zionist fascism, they indicate on the other hand the failure of the aggressors to meet face to face the fighters who resisted their invasion with courage. So they resorted instead to the of F-15 and Kfeir planes. Ten minutes of heavy shelling were enough to make poor dwellings crumble like paper palaces.

killing of innocent people. These « samples » also reveal Israel's aims in forcing the largest number of the inhabitants of the South to emigrate, and in uprooting them from their land and villages.

— In the course of organized killing and terrorism, Israel committed a very large number of premeditated crimes, not only during the military operations, but after the ceasefire, and even after the UN troops took up positions in the occupied areas.

Most of the acts of torture and kidnappings to which the inhabitants in the occupied villages were subjected had taken place after the lapse of a few days on the occupation of those villages. Testimony to this is what happened in the villages of Ain Be'al, Bazourieh, Barashit, Nakoura, Bint Jebeil, Kuleia, Jibnin and others — where kidnappings took place, ending mostly in assassinations and barbaric torture inside Israeli jails.

Most of the operations, in which houses were blown up and plantations burned, took place at intervals that followed the aggression. In Bazourieh, for instance, scores of houses were blown up after the lapse of eight days of the entry of Israeli troops to the village. The same case applies to Abbasiya, where 150 houses were blown up. After more than one month of their invasion, the Israelis were burning fields and plantations in Rashaya el-Fokhar and Khoraybe with their phosphorous bombs. The same things happened in Ibl el-Saki.

— The thefts and acts of looting directly committed by the Israelis are but evidence of Zionist « civilization ». Those acts took such wide proportions that even the Israeli news media could not keep silent on them. And in their attempt to minimize these scandals, « Haartz » newspaper published in Tel Aviv says: « The Israeli soldiers looted moderately... they only stole whatever their pockets and sacks could take, such as transistor radios, small valuables and old relics... As to big thefts », Haartz says, « they were committed by unruly and undisciplined elements from the rear units ». So the front units were for killing

When Kamal el-Din Picked up an Israeli « Toy »

« The Israelis were throwing down « reservoirs » that would explode. They threw down pens and exploding toys. When Kamal el-Din, who is of my age, picked up a toy, shining like gold, it exploded in his hand, and he was wounded in his leg and eyes. Hussein Awad was also hit and had a broken leg. So was Ali Eid (10 years) and his condition is grave ».

and massacres, and the rear units were for theft and looting. In and massacres, and the rear units were for theft and looting ! In scores of trucks loaded with stolen goods and with «big» thefts, there were some that belonged to high ranking officers of the Israeli army.

— The « scorched earth » policy applied by Israel in the areas of the occupied South was clearly demonstrated by :

- complete disappearance of villages from geographical existence, and the elimination of all their landmarks, such as Ghandourieh, Abbassiya, Izziyeh, Kantara, Deir Hanna, Bayyada and others,

- complete and premeditated destruction of more than 2,500 houses, and partial destruction of more than 6,200 houses,

- complete destruction of more than 50 schools, and damaging and looting of all the schools in other villages that fell into the enemy's hands,

- damaging and putting out of operation 10 hospitals and medical centers, i.e. nearly all the medical institutions that existed in the underdeveloped South, which was always disregarded by the Lebanese State,

- destruction of olive presses and fuel stations and other installations, especially water and electricity networks. In several villages, the invaders closed down artesian wells after looting their motors in addition to water pipes,

- destruction and looting of more than 20 places of worship including churches, mosques and (Shiite) Husseiniyas.

— In the course of this policy, Israel undertook to change the landmarks of South Lebanon, geographically and from the inhabitants' point of view, either by constructing military roads for its vehicles on the remains of obliterated villages, or through agricultural land, or by completely erasing villages, or by building airports for its military helicopters, or by setting up emplacements for its artillery and military bases in place of trees and

People or Trees Were Saved

testimony

The correspondent of «An Nahar» newspaper,
Sa'id Meallawi :

«Rashaya el-Fokhar» was subjected to a total assassination attempt. Neither the people, nor the church or houses or trees were saved. What the airforce's shells forgot, the Israeli bulldozers remembered, and wiped out the towns landmarks.

«There is no road to Rashaya and anyone going there should infiltrate. Mountainous paths are not easy to cross. Anyone entering Rasha would have plantations.

— The losses which the Israeli invasion caused to the agricultural wealth of the South exceeds, according to preliminary estimates and figures, one billion Lebanese pounds. For in addition to damaging tens of thousands of dunums of cultivated land and to damaging and destroying more than 150,000 olive, almond, fig, orange and banana trees, the invading troops bulldozed and destroyed large areas of cultivable land in a way that made the land quite unusable.

— These results which the Israeli invasion made a point of achieving, including the emigration and dispersal of more than 270,000 refugees, reveal Israel's final objectives in turning the South into an uninhabited region, making it lose its national identity in order to facilitate Israeli expansionist ambitions.

In the following pages, there are statements and figures, about the losses and damages based on an investigation made by a mission from the Lebanese « An Nidaa » newspaper that visited the South, and on a report by the Higher Relief Committee (set up by the Lebanese government in 1975 to relieve and help the victims of the Lebanese civil war), and a report by the United Nations Office for Refugee Affairs, and also on certain statements and figures released by the International Red Cross Committee in Lebanon .

They are thought to belong to the victims of the church shelling two days before the occupation. After that, you see a destroyed jeep left over by the Israelis. Near the fountain at the entrance of the town. You see the traces of the battles and the remains of artillery shells and certain roadblocks... The asphalted road is filled with debris, while commercial stores and even complete streets have disappeared. Even churches were looted and shelled and electricity poles stretched on the street far away from their positions».

«Engineers say that mines are not always the worst problem. They are usually of the type directed against groups, and they are planted in areas that become occupied and in places where they may be seen. But the problem lies in finding the time to discover all those mines before they explode. Israeli troops planted around five or six thousand mines of the «mice-trap» type, and 2,000 of them were rendered ineffective.

Churches Also Were Targets of Israeli Shelling

«On the morning of March 15, 1978, the Israeli attack began. I went out with my wife and the town's inhabitants to take refuge in the church, hoping Israel would not shell places of worship. What happened was that the shelling was concentrated on the church — where the people took refuge. The shelling was fierce, and people started running out of the church. The only persons who stayed in there were the aged people.

«After the shelling ceased, the search for the lost persons began. I could not find my wife. On that sad day many people died, and we found their bodies inside the church and outside it. My wife's body was found burned inside the church».

Thus Died Khodr

« I was surprised. I didn't know it was the war until paratroops landed in the streets of the village. They killed my husband and my brother without my knowing how. I didn't see them. The tanks in the streets ordered the inhabitants to come out of their houses with their hands up. They did. But Khodr did not heed the order and ran towards his house. A tank followed him and ordered him to come out with his hands up. Khodr came out with his hands behind his back. The tank fired its gun at him and Khodr fell at the doorstep of his house.

Later, masked men came to search the men and their bodies for signs showing they had participated in fighting against the Zionists. Afterwards, bullets started raining. I do not know who among the men died ».

After four days they came back; they tied me up and took me away where I was beaten with iron and with their hands. They then put me in a truck and tied me up and drove me toward Israel. I believe, because the drive was long, and it lasted for more than six hours. I woke up to find myself in hospital. CLUSTER BOMBS

EXPLODED LIKE
VOLCANOES

□ A Reuter correspondent in the South gave a report about the devastating cluster bombs used by Israeli troops against the city of Tyre. The correspondent said : «On the fifth day of the war in South Lebanon, I saw Israeli Phantom planes coming in, wave after wave, emptying their loads of cluster bombs on the suburb of «Maa-shouk», which is situated at a 2-kilometer distance to the east of Tyre... The Mediterranean sky was filled with black dots of smoke which any person can easily detect, since they are the result of the explosion of big cans filled with hundreds of anti personnel bombs dropped over a wide area. America's delivery of such bombs to Israel had raised furor in 1976. It is believed Israel used these bombs for the first time on a wide scale, and they had devastating effects during the war in Vietnam. In the east of the area where I was watching the Israeli attack, a piece of land where a road linking the villages of Ghandouriyeh and Kantara passes, exploded like a volcano erupting into fire and smoke, after being hit by Israeli planes and heavy artillery».

The Adloun Massacre, or How Weizmann killed a « Terrorist Commander »

A gunboat lands commandos on the beach facing the town of Adloun. The commandoes attack two civilian passenger cars carrying southern refugees belonging to the Kaddouh and Tawil families from Khirbet Silm, and the Dakroub family from Tibnin. Let the only surviving woman, Maryam Kaddouh, describe the massacre :

« At first they fired at the car's tyres, then they threw two bombs at us. My brothers, Hassan and Hussein, were sitting in the car's trunk, so they jumped out and hid. I stretched my hand towards my mother and found her head in my hand. I stretched my second arm towards my brother Ahmed and his bleeding hand came out. They were speaking Hebrew. After they attacked us they started laughing. Meanwhile, another car was passing and they attacked it as they had us ».

(« An Nida » newspaper — March 18, 1978)

But what account did the Israeli sources give about the massacre ? We will find this in the statement made by Weizmann, the Israeli defense minister, commenting on the Adloun massacre. Weizmann said : « Yesterday we set up an ambush, north of Tyre, and killed one of the terrorist leaders, but some civilians may have been harmed ».

Al Khiyam Massacre
« Cooperation » of the Fascists with the Zionists

What happens when Lebanese Fascists « cooperate with Israeli Zionists ?

The wife of Hussein Kansou of Al Khiyam, one of the few survivors of Al Khiyam massacre in which were killed more than 50 people, whose ages ranged between 70 and 85 years, gave this testimony :

« We were sleeping in the shelter. We heard the buzzing of planes flying over the town. We woke up, all of us, and silence reigned in anticipation of what would happen. The planes went away for a short while and then came back to start shelling. The strength of the shelling gave us an idea of how heavy the raid was. We remained awake until six o'clock in the morning as the raid went on. After that came some quiet. So I went out of the shelter with my husband and brother-in-law to find out what had happened to our house... God, what did we find ! Israeli tanks were advancing towards the town, preceded by Sa'd Haddad's men. Large numbers of Israeli soldiers and Haddad's troops were coming forward. Innumerable tanks were rolling over the ruins of houses. When they saw us, they arrested us. They asked about our names and ordered us to tell them where the fighters were and the types of weapons they were using and their depots. When we told them we knew nothing, since most of us did not know how to use the arms even, they let us go and told us : « Let everyone go to his house ». But as the Israelis turned their backs to go, four of Sa'd Haddad's men suddenly came up to us and asked us to hand them over all the money we carried. They insisted on searching us, and even searched the clothes of women. The theft's net result was 35 thousand Lebanese pounds. Afterwards they asked us to walk in front of them. We were ten men and six women. They began hitting us with their rifle butts. My husband asked me in a very low voice to run away, so I turned around and escaped towards the shelter where I found a woman and her husband hiding in the dark corner of the shelter. I told them no to go on out for fear they might get hurt. At night, I went out to enquire about what was happening. I found no one on the street except bodies here and there — some without heads, some thrown on their faces, some on their backs — and among them I searched for my husband. I found him. He was killed with his face kissing the earth. I could neither weep nor cry for fear of getting killed because I had seen an old woman called Zeinab shot in the back as she was trying to run toward the shelter. I could not weep, for I was afraid they might hear me and kill me. At night, all the survivors gathered and headed towards Beirut ».

The Houses Were Falling on our Heads In Abbasiya

□ Khadija Nassar (80 years) relates the following :

« By God, the planes would fly low and hit and the houses would fall on us. We buried 150 bodies. The victims are still under the debris. A 5-year old boy was dismembered by dogs and we buried him. More than 240 houses were destroyed... and the mosque too ».

□ Another Abbasiya inhabitant relates :

« The total number of killed was 140 civilian martyrs. Until yesterday (March 24), the bodies of nearly 90 old men, women and children were still under the debris, especially under the mosque which was destroyed by Israeli shelling. The smell was spreading without the Israeli burial unit touring the villages to bury their victims being able to carry out its duty. The Red Cross was not even allowed to enter the village ».

testimony

"What I saw was a mixture of fear and horror. Hundreds of artillery shells were falling like rain on that slope. I saw the town of Al Khiyam through binoculars and it attracted me with its red roofs and stone buildings. It was built in a way fit to be a sanatorium or a place to spend vacation in. Tons of explosives fell on the town that night. Suddenly the guns fell silent... and infantry units began advancing towards the town of Khiyam. Before reaching it by a few hundred yards, infantrymen stopped to give way to waves of Israeli planes that flew into shell the town and obliterate the landmarks which the artillery could not erase.

"A dozen artillery shells of 155 mm caliber were fired against every resistance fighter, coming down like rain on Khiyam together with scores of explosive tons dropped by Israeli airforce planes... I saw the burnt Israeli bus in Tel Aviv... I wanted to hit back and wished to annihilate the resistance but what I saw... exceeded all this."

Arab and world reactions in both denunciation and support prove once again certain facts and realities :

- Israel's aggressive and expansionist policy has the support of the United States of America, and this policy poses a threat to peace in the Middle East and in the world.
- The Soviet Union, the socialist countries, and the revolutionary and democratic forces in the world affirmed their denunciation of this policy and their unequivocal by their support of the just struggle of the Palestinian people and its heroic resistance, and by their siding with the Lebanese Nationalist Movement.
- The aggression uncovered the weakness of the Israeli claim that their invasion was a reaction to the Palestinian commando operation. International circles, including Israeli ones, revealed the extent of the planning and preparation that preceded the aggression, while statements by Israeli officials revealed the exact aims behind the aggression.
 - Annihilation of the Palestinians.
 - Crippling Lebanese nationalist forces.
 - Imposing direct control over South Lebanon.

The following are some samples of reactions and of acts and statements of support that are incomplete and inconclusive, in spite of the depth of their meaning, and the large extent of their representation, worldwide and in the Arab countries.

□ In Damascus, during the period March 19-21, the foreign and defense ministers of the member states of the steadfastness bloc (which comprises Syria, Libya, Algeria, Democratic Yemen), hld an urgent meeting after which the conferees issued a statement affirming :

- 1° The condemnation of the Israeli aggression against Lebanese territory, the Lebanese people and the Palestinian Resistance.
- 2° The necessity of the Israeli withdrawal, complete and unconditional, from all Lebanese territory occupied by Israel.
- 3° The condemnation of the terrorism practised by the Zionist enemy against the Palestinian Arab people.

- 4° Solidarity with the brotherly Lebanese people and the respect of Lebanon's sovereignty and independence, the unity of its people and its national entity, the support of its lawful constitutional authorities in such a way that will allow those authorities to exercise their full national responsibilities, and backing of national reconciliation under the leadership of President Elias Sarkis.
- 5° Standing up to the American and Zionist plots aimed at liquidating the Palestinian case, supporting the Palestinian resistance in all fields, especially in the political and military, and securing the necessary resources for the Palestinian people under the leadership of the Palestinian Liberation Organization to continue its just struggle for the sake of repatriation and deciding its own fate and the setting up of its independent national state on Palestinian soil.

- 6° Taking into consideration the resolutions of the Tripoli and Algiers meetings, the conference rejects any Arab meeting in which President Anwar Sadat participates, because of his responsibility for the deterioration of conditions in the area, and condemns his role and attitude towards the Zionist aggression in South Lebanon and his continued links with the American-Zionist imperialistic scheme against the Arab nation as a whole.
- 7° Supports the steadfastness and struggle of the Palestinian Arab people in occupied territories, and salutes their uprising against Zionist occupation authorities.

« The conference pays tribute to the steadfastness of the Lebanese people and the forces of the Palestinian Resistance, which stood with heroism and courage against the Zionist aggression, affirming, once again, that there will be no peace in the region unless the Palestinian people regain their national rights.

« The conference lauds the attitude of the peoples, states and forces that condemned the Israeli aggression and stood on the side of the just cause ».

March 20, 1978

□ The Soviet Union :
The Aggression Will Not Pass Without Punishment.

A statement released by Tass agency on the second day of the invasion said : « Israeli tank and mechanized infantry units invaded Lebanese territory all along the Lebanese-Israeli borders and launched a wide attack in the direction of the towns of Sidon and Tyre. Together with the landing of seaborne troops, the Israeli airforce struck at towns and Lebanese inhabited centers. Peaceful civilians, including women and children fell. It is a direct aggression against the Lebanese sovereign state. Israel aims at fulfilling its very old objective, which is occupation of the southern part of Lebanon and the annihilation of the Palestinian Resistance Movement, the firm struggler to secure the lawful national rights of the Palestinian Arab people.

The statement added :

« All this reveals again, and very clearly, the real core of Israel's policy which does not seek peace in the Middle East, but seeks to re-draw the map of the region. All the talk about Egyptian-Israeli negotiations is nothing but a smokescreen for the continuation of aggressive acts against Arab countries bordering Israel. It is also clear once again that Israel could not commit this act without the silent support of those from whom Israeli troops receive their arms.

The statement went to say : « Tass » is empowered to state that the Soviet Union firmly denounces Israel's armed intervention in Lebanon, and clls on all those who care for peace to unify their efforts in order to stop the Israeli aggression and to have Israel withdraw her troops immediately from Lebanese territory. Responsibility for the dangerous effects of the tense situation in the Middle East falls again on the government of Israel ».

15/3/1978

□ Kurt Waldheim, U.N. Secretary General, said in a statement that he considers the Israeli attack on Lebanon a threat to international peace and security. His statement said : « I am deeply concerned over the military operations undertaken by Israel in South Lebanon, and I cannot but denounce the violation of the territory of a sovereign state and the use of force against her ».

16/3/1978

□ The Coordination Office of Non-Aligned States held a meeting in Geneva and then issued a statement strongly condemning the « Zionist barbaric attack on the Palestinian and Lebanese peoples in South Lebanon ».

The statement stressed again the lawful rights of the Palestinian people in determining their own fate and setting up their independent state on their land. The statement expressed solidarity with the Lebanese people and full support for efforts aimed at the immediate and unconditional withdrawal of Israeli troops.

16/3/1978

□ In Lisbon, the International Union of Parliamentarians denounced the Israeli attack on South Lebanon, and called for the immediate Israeli withdrawal from Lebanese territory. The call came at the end of the Union's session.

□ The World Peace Council organized two weeks of solidarity with the peoples of Lebanon and Palestine, and held the United States responsible for the aggression. The Council also issued a call in which it said :

« The Israeli invasion of Lebanon is premeditated aggression, and it was strongly denounced by governments and world public opinion.

« The killing and wounding of hundreds of innocent Lebanese and Palestinian civilians, men, women and children, by the Israeli army and airforce under the pretext of reply, aims at weakening and crushing the Palestine Organization and the Lebanese Nationalist Forces.

« The Israeli prime minister arrogantly declared that the 25,000 Israeli soldiers will stay in Lebanon until the criminal objectives are achieved. Thus, instead of carrying out withdrawal from occupied Arab territory, United Nations resolutions calling for her

Israel undertakes the occupation of new territory ».

The call went on to say : « The government of the United States of America bears a heavy responsibility for this aggression, which creates great risks that might have wide repercussions in the Middle East ».

16/3/1978

□ The Afro-Asian Peoples Solidarity Organization condemned the Israeli invasion and the Israeli claims that the operation was a reprisal, saying that this act was not only directed against the Palestinians, but was also a chain in Israel's expansionist policy aimed at occupying parts of Lebanon.

18/3/1978

□ The Permanent Secretariat of the Arab Peoples Congress with headquarters in Tripoli, Libya, issued a statement affirming that the wide military attack launched by Zionist troops on South Lebanon came at the direct instigation of American imperialism.

19/3/1978

□ The Syrian Government expressed its readiness to allow the passage of aid via its territory to the Palestinian Resistance Movement in Lebanon.

□ Syrian cities and towns witness huge mass demonstrations denouncing the Zionist aggression.

31/3/1978

□ The Arab Student Organizations in Syria praise the steadfastness and heroism of our brave revolutionaries against the Zionist occupation forces.

16/3/1978

□ Cuba said in a statement issued by the Cuban foreign ministry :

« The Cuban foreign ministry declares in the name of the government of the Cuban Republic its strong condemnation of the massacre perpetrated by the Zionist Israeli government against South Lebanon, which constitutes a flagrant violation of the sovereignty of this country, of the killing of Lebanese, Arab and Palestinian citizens, and of razing to the ground of villages, at the same time disregarding altogether human lives in those areas.

« Once again the Israeli government violates human rights and the principles of the U.N. Charter on peace and equilibrium in the Middle East region, and treads upon the sovereignty and integrity of Lebanon, causing numerous losses in the ranks of the civilian population in addition to the heavy material damages.

« Israel's acts in the Middle East are carried out with the backing of the government of Washington — the basic economic, political and military supporter of Israel. The government of Cuba is seeking, in coordination with other states members of the United Nations, to condemn and stop the policy of annihilation followed by the government of Israel.

□ In Tripoli, Libya, Colonel Moammar Kadhafi sent a message to the Lebanese and Palestinian peoples expressing his appreciation of the heroism they manifested in resisting Israeli invasion.

He added in his message : « If the Arab nation is unaware today, it is still represented by the heroic Lebanese people ».

□ In Libya, the General Peoples Congress calls for opening the door for volunteers.

19/3/1978

□ Vietnam denounces the Israeli invasion of South Lebanon.

The official Vietnamese news agency distributed the text of a letter sent by the Vietnamese government to the Palestine Liberation Organization. The letter said :

« This aggressive act constitutes a flagrant violation of the United Nations charter and a direct threat to peace in the Middle East.

« Vietnamese workers re-state their full support and solidarity with the just struggle of the Palestinian people. We also declare our support and solidarity with the brave struggle of the Lebanese people in defending their independence, sovereignty and the unity of their country ».

21/3/1978

□ The Government of Popular Democratic Yemen strongly condemned the Zionist barbaric attack on South Lebanon which aims at annihilating the Palestinian people and their revolution.

The statement, issued by the Council of Ministers, said : « The Zionist enemy has committed this savage act while enjoying the full and open backing of imperialism states ».

The Council of Ministers statement added : « The government and people of Democratic Yemen salute, during these decisive moments, the steadfastness of the Palestinian people under the leadership of the Liberation Organization, and salute as well the steadfastness of the Lebanese people and their nationalist movement in the face of this savage Zionist attack and declare their true and brotherly solidarity with the Lebanese and Palestinian peoples to repel this aggression.

□ The government of Democratic Germany considers the barbaric Zionist invasion a flagrant criminal violation of the Lebanese territory aimed at annihilating the Palestinian people, and calls on the Zionist aggressors to withdraw immediately from South Lebanon.

THE WORLD DENOUNCES AND SUPPORTS

□ In East Germany trade unions said in a message received by the National Union of Workers and Employees Syndicates :

« The National Higher Committee of Trade Unions in Democratic Germany declares its strong denunciation of the Israeli aggression against Lebanon. This criminal aggression is backed by the United States, militarily and politically, and is directed against the Lebanese and the Palestinian people and against a permanent and just peace in the Middle East ».

THIS IS MY LAND

Battle of the Hasbani Bridge

On March 20, two comrade fighters of the joint forces were on the Hasbani bridge. Suddenly, an Israeli mechanized unit advanced from Kawkaba. It was four o'clock in the afternoon and the situation was fearful. Planes were flying at low altitude and firing their shells and artillery, and rocket fire was going on unabated. The first Israeli vehicle hit a mine on the side of the road, exploded and was put out of action, and then the battle began. Sa'd Hadda's men were on the side of the Israelis. Despite the lack of balance and equality between the two sides, the fighters of the joint forces were determined to hold on to their positions. If the bridge were occupied, this would mean that the Hasbaya road would be cut. At six o'clock, the Israelis were pulling out their wounded and their destroyed vehicle. The bridge remained in the hands of the nationalists.

I KNOW THE WAY IS NOT SAFE... BUT I WILL ARRIVE

Mustafa el-Duhainy :

« At the Kassimiya bridge, I met Mustafa el-Duhainy with his wife and children. He told me with a voice full of heroism and sadness : « I shall never leave Tyre again, and I am going back there where I prefer to die with my family rather than live under tents and in the open ». Before leaving he told me (as bombs were falling around us) : « I know that the way is not safe but I will arrive there ».

« Take up arms to liberate the national soil... To struggle in order to force the complete Israeli withdrawal from the South unconditionally ».

With this call the Central Political Council of the Nationalist Movement appealed to the masses to rise up in defense of the fatherland and the beloved South. The call came in the wake of an enlarged meeting of the Central Political Council held on March 3, 1978, during which a review of the situation in all its facets was made especially from the angle of the aggression and the heroic resistance put up and the question of refugees that resulted from the Zionist attack.

Following is the text of the appeal :

« Oh Lebanese

Our fatherland faces today a fateful danger that places our whole future in the face of the most violent challenges. Israel has occupied a large part of our dear South, and the army of the Zionist enemy escalates its criminal aggression and expands the area of land it occupies, dispersing more people and sowing destruction in our towns and villages. Meantime, the joint forces of the Nationalist Movement and the Palestinian Resistance display utmost courage in defending the land and protecting all that is sacred to us in the face of an enemy, using its huge military machine with its massive concentrations of troops, tanks, planes, fleet and artillery — all imported from the American arsenal.

Israel had thought that its invasion of the South would be a short trip, during which the enemy would achieve all his objectives in a few hours, and would place us, the Arabs and the whole world, before a fait accompli that no one could change. But the heroic and continued national resistance hampered the Israeli advance in more than one place, and foiled the enemy's dream of a lightning victory, inflicting on him losses he never dreamed he would suffer.

As the enemy continues to escalate and expand his invasion, he prepares to exploit his military achievement in the political field, announcing his conditions to place the South under real Israeli control, and to turn the whole of Lebanon into a vital space for Israel, in addition to total liquidation of the Palestinian presence.

In the face of all this, we today appeal to all Lebanese who are interested in the fate of the country, and who believe in keeping Lebanon unified Arab for all its inhabitants, to stand united under the banner of struggle and by all means to liberate their land and force complete Israeli withdrawal from the South, unconditionally.

As the Nationalist Movement makes this appeal, it announces its decision to continue the fight to liberate occupied Lebanese land and its determination to mobilize its power and the potential of the nationalist masses to continue the struggle with all its means, in order to force Israel to stop its criminal aggression and withdraw from our dear South. The Nationalist Movement affirms its rejection of Israel's blackmail to keep the South and the whole of Lebanon under Zionist control.

The Nationalist Movement calls upon Lebanese authorities to shoulder their national responsibilities in full under these difficult circumstances — either by clearly and unequivocally abiding by the demand for complete and unconditional Israeli withdrawal from the South, or by facilitating the mobilization of the national potential to be placed at the service of liberating the land, or finally by complying with the need to deal quickly with the acute social problems resulting from the Israeli occupation, foremost of which is the problem of refugees and the destruction of the sources of income of thousands among our people ».

Meeting of the Central Political Council of the Lebanese Nationalist Movement, March 18, 1978.

Yasser Arafat

In the wake of the Israeli aggression against the South, Abou Ammar, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Palestine Liberation Organization-Commander in Chief of the Forces of the Palestinian Revolution, addressed the masses of the Arab nation. Following is the text of the address :

At this time, and for the third consecutive day, the forces of the Palestinian Revolution together with Lebanese nationalist forces continue their courageous and heroic stand in the face of the large-scale Zionist military attack on South Lebanon, where the « Israeli » military gang threw two divisions backed by tank, artillery and rocket brigades into the battle, in addition to six squadrons of Phantom planes, Skyhawks and Mirages, plus fifteen « Israeli » sea vessels.

At this time, Palestinian and Lebanese heroism stand in the face of the « Israeli » aggression, and the terrorist Menahem Begin imagines he is capable of destroying the Palestinian Revolution by throwing into the battle this aggressive military force that exceeds 25.000 troops. He has done this so that he can dictate his surrender conditions while his hands are free and he is drunk with victory and with the arrogance with which he is used to act.

But Begin discovered that his campaign was not a trip in the South, in the face of the courage and legendary steadfastness with which our joint forces met him, and which was not included in his military accounts, as was admitted by the chief of staff of the enemy army, Mordechai Ghur.

Our forces stood fast and fought with courage on all axes, and all along the 97-kilometer front in the face of « Israeli » troops equipped with the whole Zionist military machine, which included American tanks, American planes, American artillery and missiles, and American approval and blessing. For the third consecutive day our joint forces are fighting with courage and manliness to defend the Arab character of the South, to defend the honor and pride of the Arab nation, so that the South will remain Lebanese and Arab, as it has been all along the course of history. They are fighting so that « Israel » and those who are behind « Israel », be they imperialists or colonizers, and those who plot with « Israel » should understand that the Palestinian Revolution and the joint forces will remain faithful to the principles of revolution and nationalism and to the sacred and high objectives they adhere to. These objectives are : to fight and to fight, to struggle and to struggle in every inch, in every trench and behind every wall in the South, no matter what the price of the sacrifice may be.

Oh brothers, our faithful and truthful Arab masses, we are fighting this battle where there is no equality in weapons or men, we are fighting with the heroism of our revolutionaries and with our unflinching faith and determination, we are fighting with our bodies which face the Zionist tanks and which are sacrificed in front of the « Israeli »-American war machine. It is our destiny, it is our national Arab duty from which we will never deviate nor retreat.

The resistance against aggression is our destiny, and the destiny of the honorable strugglers in this Arab nation and in the face of this programmed imperialistic invasion.

Our fate and national historic responsibility is in standing fast and fighting in the face of imperialistic and Zionist challenges, which we are meeting within the context of the big imperialist-Zionist plot against our Arab nation and its very existence, and which is also fully directed against our Palestinian people, its cause and its revolution.

The question, my brothers, is to be or not to be. The question is whether this Arab nation will stay or it will disappear, whether we shall live in our Arab land with dignity and honor or under occupation, surrender and in fetters.

Our joint forces have chosen the path of steadfastness and have defined their way and taken their decision :

To fight and fight until victory

To fight and fight until liberation

To fight and fight until glory and martyrdom.

Blessed be the arms that fight ; blessed be the heroes who fall in the most honorable battle of glory and honor for our Arab nation on the soil of South Lebanon — the courageous, patient and struggling South — paying the price with their blood on behalf of the whole Arab nation.

Oh Masses of our struggling Arab nation

In the name of all these heroes, revolutionaries and strugglers, we salute our Arab masses, whom we trust will always be with us faithful to the cause as they have always been through ancient and modern history. It is a nation that stands by the heroes who defend its existence, pride and honor, and which rejects subjugation, accepting nothing less than living a free and honorable life on its and in its fatherland.

This is our revolutionary oath : to stand and fight on the path of pride and victory.

The Zionist invasion most certainly will be beaten and will retreat in the face of courage and heroism in South Lebanon, so that Begin and his Zionist military gang will understand that in this nation there are men who asked for death and martyrdom to give their nation life and pride.

Everlasting glory be to our heroic martyrs.

And Revolution Until Victory.
